Introduction to the Liturgy of the Word

Genesis 2:18–24 The two of them become one flesh.

Psalms 128 “May the Lord bless us all the days of our lives.”

Hebrews 2:9–11 He who consecrates and those who are being consecrated all have one origin.

Mark 10:2–16 or 10:2–12 Therefore what God has joined together let no human being separate.

Today we travel back in time to when God created humankind. Realizing that the first human needed a suitable partner, God formed a woman out of the man’s own body. In the Gospel, Jesus quotes the line that ends the first reading—that husband and wife are formed as one flesh—to speak of this new entity. He follows this lesson by welcoming children, telling the disciples that one must accept the kingdom of God like a child. Listening to scripture today, let us embrace the innocence and wonder of a new being.

Question of the Week:

What can I do to put the needs of those I love, of those who depend on me, above my own needs this week?
